

THE DECISION RESERVED.

The White-Campe-Clark Horse Case.

The case of Dr. F. E. White, charged with obtaining a horse valued at $200 from J. C. Clark, was heard before Justice Howerton yesterday afternoon.

It appears from the evidence given, that Clark stopped at White's stable one day last week and desired to make a trade, stating that he wished to sell the horse he was then riding.

White sent for H. N. Campe and told him the horse was for sale. After some consultation, Campe bought the horse for $200, giving two notes of $100 each in payment.

Campe told White to get the notes discounted at the Citizen's Bank and he would pay the discount.

Clark charges that White represented Campe as being an extensive real estate dealer and that he owned a fine race horse worth more than $1,000.

The trade was made and Clark took the notes to the bank, but could not get them discounted. Records at the clerk's office were examined, but nothing was found to Campe's credit.

Clark then found out that the horse was in the possession of Dr. White, and consulting his lawyer, Judge Williams, a writ of detinue was served on White by the city sergeant to compel the return of the animal. But the horse was not to be found. White refused to give any information as to the whereabouts of the horse, and the sergeant reported the case to Clark, who was by this time beginning to open his eyes to the fact that he had lost his horse.

Clark procured his friend, Mr. Welch, to find out the whereabouts of the animal. The horse could be found, but Welch learned that Campe had sold the horse, and that White had bought it from him. To any question as to where the horse was, White gave evasive answers, but finally said he had sent the animal into the country.

Clark then swore out a warrant for the arrest of White and Campe. It was executed by Policeman Brown, who arrested Campe, and took him before Justice Howerton. White was next brought in and both gave bail in the sum of $200 each. S. A. Comfort becoming surety for Campe. Campe left town Saturday night for New York.

At the trial yesterday evening, White appeared and stood trial. He was represented by T. M. Wood, while Clark's interests were looked after by Judge Williams.

The warrant charged White and Campe with obtaining the horse by means of false pretense.

The evidence was exhaustive. Judge Williams pressed the doctor into answering many questions relating to transactions between Campe and White. He openly charged a collusion between the two men to defraud Clark out of his horse.

White's testimony was that he paid Campe $37.50 for the horse and credited him on account for the balance.

The case was argued by counsel, who took up much time explaining just how the transaction occurred. One side wanted to show that the other was a fool to be duped, and the other how big a scoundrel one was because he had swindled an innocent man.

W. A. Glasgow was present and said he had a note from Campe asking him to appear for him. He asked that the case against him be dismissed, as there was really no charge.

Justice Howerton reserved his decision till Wednesday evening.
